

Newsletter April 2010

Brand New Children's Book Order It Today!

This Christian Children's Book is the first in a newly released series designed to teach young children gospel principles in a simple, meaningful way. This book is exclusive to this website and cannot be purchased in stores. I Have Faith is available in softcover, 8 ½ by 11 inches in size. The type is large, and each page contains a simple phrase to help young children who are learning to read.

Book 1 in the I Will Follow Jesus Series
Contains 24 original illustrations
Includes sheet music to original song "I Will Follow Jesus". Copies of this book are now available for immediate order. For only $14.95!

<http://www.prophetpaintings.com/childrens-religious-books>

Religious Children's Books - Teaching Valuable Principles and Reading

My son loves books. Sometimes he wants to sit on them more than read them, and often he wants to look at the grown up books just as much as his books. Some of his favorite books to look at are ones that contain pictures of the Savior. He learned very young to identify Him in pictures, and he loves to look through religious children's books and find Him.

Experts say that parents should read to their children at least 20 minutes a day to help their reading and comprehension skills develop. But children do more than learn to read when they look at books and are read to. They learn about all aspects of life from the characters and scenarios in the books.

Religious children's books are great because they not only help young children learn to read, they teach important principles and tell important stories. That is not to say that every book a child reads should be about someone from the scriptures, nor that every book necessarily needs to teach a moral lesson. But if you read to your children stories of Christ, or Moses, or just about people being kind, they will learn important life lessons while also honing their reading and comprehensive skills.

One of our church leaders told of his 2 year old grandson who dressed up and stood on a stool. He proudly announced, "I am King Benjamin (a spiritual leader in the scriptures), Everybody be nice!" He learned this story from a book, and was seeking to apply what he learned.

Children who learn basic reading skills and moral principles before starting kindergarten have a better chance of success socially and intellectually. Religious children's books can help parents achieve this for their children.

ProphetPaintings.com is owned by Trent and Camille Bowen, members of the LDS faith and parents of two children. They believe that LDS art helps individuals and families to come unto Christ.